Harold Blankquist
Consult-u-temps
2231 Chang Chun Rd.

Beijing, China

Mr. Blankquist,

I own a small manufacturing concern that I run with my two sons. My eldest thinks that we should be expanding into China like other large manufacturers. ___[1]___. I frankly don't know enough about it to know whether his opinion has any merit. He gave me your article you recently published in Asia Industries Monthly and suggested that I read it and contact your firm about your consulting services.

___[2]___. We are just a small company and can't really afford to fly anyone over to Beijing on a fact-finding tour or anything like that, but I wondered if we might consult by phone. If you'd prefer, my younger son, the computer whiz, says that he could set up an Internet teleconference.

___[3]___. Nevertheless, I'd appreciate the chance to talk with you. We are, of course, willing to pay the same fee as a normal face-to-face session.

I look forward to hearing back from you on this matter. ___[4]___. If you have any questions, you can contact me or either of my boys by using the contact information at the bottom of the page.

Questions 170-173 refer to the following magazine article.

Casual Dining Continues to Expand but will it last...?

The past ten years have seen an explosion in what has come to be known "casual dining." Restaurants such as "February's," "The Cherry Garden," and "Scooters" have taken advantage of the growth of the baby boom generation with disposable income and busy schedules. From a negligible sliver of the restaurant pie to a 500-million-dollar chunk, the past decade has seen nothing short of a revolution in the restaurant industry. ___[1]___.

Naysayers, however, are predicting catastrophe for the sector in the coming months as a once solid economy has been shaken by increasing unemployment and inflation. ___[2]___.

Belle Merewether, a financial analyst who follows the restaurant industry closely, says that a downturn is inevitable. She emphasized that the casual dining would suffer the most. "The middle-class is always the first to have their consumer confidence shaken, and at the first sign of a slowing economy, folks tend to start implementing cost-cutting measures. The axe usually falls first on dining out."

Already many national chains, such as February's are test marketing lower-priced menu items and other similar promotions in an attempt to keep diners coming in for more. ___[3]___.

The casual dining sector of the restaurant industry continued to expand through last quarter, with sales up an average of 1.5%. Investors, however, are not convinced that the trend will continue, sending the stock prices of several well-known casual dining chains spiraling downward over the past two weeks. ___[4]___.

170. What does the article imply about the casual dining sector?

- (A) It will be affected by general economic conditions.
- (B) It is larger than the fast-food sector.
- (C) It needs to be revolutionized.
- (D) It has caused an increase in unemployment.

171. In which of the positions marked [1], [2], [3], and [4] does the following sentence best belong?

"For now, the picture still seems quite rosy."

- (A) [1]
- (B) [2]
- (C) [3]
- (D) [4]

172. What are some casual dining restaurants beginning to do?

- (A) Cut costs
- (B) Promote workers
- (C) Offer lower-priced food
- (D) Expand into new markets

173. What can be inferred from the behavior of investors?

- (A) They don't often dine out.
- (B) They don't believe recent sales figures.
- (C) They want cheaper food.
- (D) They concur with Belle Merewether.

Questions 174-175 refer to the following online messages.

Anita, 06:35 P.M.

How can I access your "chat now" service? I'm in Mexico at the moment. I have to wire money to my son in Africa immediately. Please help!

CT Bank Support, 06:36 P.M.

Hi, Anita, you can access our chat service by logging into your online banking using a computer or one of your mobile devices. Once you've signed in, you'll see an orange button that says "chat now" in the bottom right hand of the page. Please let me know if you are still unable to access this. Thanks!

Anita, 06:40 P.M.	I followed your instructions, but the button is all grayed out. I clicked it several times but there was no response. Is your system down?
CT Bank Support, 06:42 P.M.	I'm sorry for that. The grey button means that all of our consultants are currently engaged in chats and will appear as orange as soon as someone becomes available. If your enquiry is urgent, it may be best to give us a ring on 0800-885-885 so we can assist ASAP. Thanks!

Dear Editor,

I simply had to take exception to the recipe for the so-called "safe" Kiddie Dough that you featured in your May 2010 issue. Although I have valued the advice that I have gotten from your publication over the years, this one is way off base.

First, as for the recipe itself, it works fine. My problem is with your characterization of it as "safe." I understand that it may seem safer than many commercially available modeling clays because it doesn't have any artificial chemicals and the ingredients are all food grade. However, that does not mean that the Kiddie Dough is actually good for children to be eating. The level of salt (sodium chloride, a chemical!) in your Kiddie Dough recipe is terribly high. If a child were to ingest that much sodium, the child should be taken to a doctor immediately. A taste here or there won't harm a child, but swallowing a good-sized piece could still prove dangerous.

Finally, instead of using the artificial food colorings available in supermarkets, I like to color my homemade kiddie dough with natural ingredients like tomato or grape juice. You might consider that for the next time you publish this recipe.

Sincerely,

Erma Beckenbaum

176. According to the recipe, how is Kiddie Dough prepared?

- (A) By baking the ingredients
- (B) By drying the ingredients
- (C) By combining the ingredients
- (D) By sticking the ingredients in your mouth

177. The amount of which ingredient in the recipe is inexact?

- (A) Flour

179. What is Ms. Beckenbaum's main objection?

- (A) The ingredient proportions are incorrect.
- (B) The temperature of the water is too high.
- (C) The food coloring is artificial.
- (D) The recipe contains high levels of sodium.

180. What suggestion does Ms. Beckenbaum make?

- (A) The dough should only be used under a doctor's supervision.
- (B) Parents should only feed children a small

- (B) Salt
- (C) Water
- (D) Food coloring

- amount of the recipe at any meal.
- (C) Only natural salt should be used in the recipe.
- (D) The use of artificial coloring should be discouraged.

178. Who is Erma Beckenbaum?

Questions 181-185 refer to the following brochure and information.

Energy Saving Benefits of Using Harborway Tankless Water Heaters

Traditional water heaters can now become a thing of the past with the introduction of the revolutionary Harborway Tankless Water Heater.

Traditional water heaters have two major disadvantages. First, they waste energy (and money!) by heating up a large amount of water and storing it in a tank. The efficiency of even the most modern tanks is low. Energy (and money!) must be constantly added to keep the water in the tank at the desired temperature as it sits and waits for someone to use it. No one keeps a pot of coffee burning all day and night just for the sake of their morning cup. Why do that for your hot water?

The second disadvantage is evident when you finally do use the water. The amount of hot water available to you is limited, as anyone who gets stuck taking the second shower knows.

Harborway Tankless water heaters solve these two problems by heating the water as it runs through the water pipes in your home. Hot, fast and efficient, Harborway Tankless Water Heaters deliver as much hot water as you need when you need it, and when you don't, you're not wasting money waiting for when you do.

(C) Installing a Harborway Water Heater is simple.

(D) Delivery of new Harborway Water Heaters is fast and efficient.

Questions 186-190 refer to the following e-mails and summary.

TO: Gatling Enterprises

From: Zell Ningfert <zningfert@kopl.mmklo.com>

I am writing in regard to one of your products that I purchased last week at the Gatling Outlet in Tempesberg. I purchased a Hide-a-way Sofa Bed for a sale price of $499 at the outlet store. The regular price was $799. Of course, I asked the sales clerk why the price was so low and I was told that it was because the only model they had in stock was damaged. The clerk, a woman whose last name was Sheldon, told me that the damage was minimal, a slight tear in the sofa fabric in the back, and she insisted that the flaw wouldn't be seen if the sofa were placed against a wall. I examined the sofa, saw the damage, but I purchased the unit because the damage I was shown was cosmetic and the price was so reasonable.

When I got the unit home, however, I found the real damage. The "bed" part of the Sofa Bed was badly damaged. The hinged frame that allows the bed to be pulled out from the sofa was horribly bent, making it impossible to extend the bed out of the unit. Needless to say, I called to complain. I was told that I had no right to complain because I knew the sofa was damaged when I purchased it. The store manager refused to refund my money.

When I called my lawyer, she said that consumer protection laws allow me to sue for 25 times the price of the item. I told her that would not be necessary. All that I want is a working Sofa Bed. Therefore, I am notifying you that I expect to see a delivery truck at my home by the end of this week to pick up this damaged piece of furniture and deliver my new one. If you do not comply, I will be forced to ask my lawyer to handle all further correspondence.

Zell Ningfert

The Law Offices of Trenton and Bueller

Summary of grounds for suit: We feel you can sue successfully on several grounds.

1. Misrepresentation and fraud: You were lied to by the clerk.
2. Failure to comply with a request for a refund: Consumer protection laws frown on behavior such as that exhibited by the store manager.
3. Endangerment: You might have been injured by the faulty bed frame.
4. Mental anguish and sleep deprivation: You have been forced to sleep on the floor for an extended period of time due to the Gatling Outlet's negligent and fraudulent behavior.

TO: Zell Ningfert zningfert@kopl.mmklo.com

From: Gatling Enterprises

Dear Ms. Ningfert:

I'm very sorry about that. After checking with Ms. Sheldon, I realized the whole situation. You are right, and I completely understand how frustrated you are. We'll resolve this issue as per your request.

Again, sorry for the inconvenience and we'll get it fixed as quickly as we can.

Best,

James Bond,
Customer Care Manager

P.S. Just want you to know Ms. Sheldon was made redundant since her behavior in this matter was unprofessional and unacceptable.

186. What is the purpose of the first e-mail?
- (A) To request a refund
 - (B) To inquire about a new sofa
 - (C) To threaten a company with legal action
 - (D) To suggest a way to improve sofa sales
187. Why did Zell Ningfert purchase the item?
- (A) She didn't know it was damaged.
 - (B) The price was low.
 - (C) She was offered free delivery.
 - (D) She didn't intend to use the bed.
188. Why has Ms. Ningfert contacted a lawyer?
- (A) She was injured by the sofa bed.
 - (B) The tear in the fabric was worse than expected.
 - (C) She was dissatisfied with the store's response to her demands.
 - (D) She fears the manager of the store may sue her.
189. What does the second e-mail imply?
- (A) Ms. Sheldon was let go because of her inappropriate behavior.
 - (B) Mr. Bond decides to give Ms. Ningfert her money back.
 - (C) The store manager was demoted to a clerk as a disciplinary measure.
 - (D) The customer care manager declines to comment about the whole thing.
190. According to the summary, which of the following is NOT grounds for a lawsuit?
- (A) The store was not truthful.
 - (B) The woman was overcharged.
 - (C) The store manager acted in an inappropriate manner.
 - (D) The sofa put her safety at risk.

Questions 191-195 refer to the following release, designs, and e-mail.

Press Release:

Technocrom Inc

April 1, 2010

Technocrom Incorporated announces the completion of its newest computer peripheral, the Technosnake. A replacement for the traditional computer mouse, the Technosnake unit allows users to manipulate their computers by slithering a wireless snake-like device across their desktops.

"The Technosnake is really a revolutionary new product," said Gary Hartman, director of marketing for the company. "Instead of pushing a piece of plastic that somewhat resembles a rodent while operating their computers, folks can now use a short length of rubber and silicone that looks just like a reptile to accomplish their tasks."

The development of the Technosnake was led by 23-year-old Doug Altman, the innovative whiz kid who was responsible for bringing glow-in-the-dark keyboards into the mainstream. Technocrom also teamed up with fashion expert, Kelvin Crime, for the design of the Technosnake's colorful diamond-back pattern. Consumers who find the Technosnake's colors too bold can look forward to the company's Technoamphibian product series, due out next year and designed to be both waterproof and dirtproof, just as their name implies.

To: Felicia Sanchez <happysanchez@compucrud.com.zt>

This is Felicia Sanchez at Compucrud. I just saw a posting of a press release on the Internet regarding your newest product, the Technosnake. I'd really like to stock this product in all of our stores. It sounds like the type of item that will really generate floor traffic. If it would be possible, could you send me a few samples of the Technosnake? I'd like to preview it to my sales staff and get their reaction. Also, if we do decide to stock the Technosnake, I'll require quite a large volume of product. That being the case, will you be able to assure me that I will be adequately supplied?

Finally, one last question. Is Technocrom planning to offer any marketing support? Advertising? Any point-of-purchase materials? Brochures? Needless to say, anything along these lines would certainly make selling the Technosnake easier.

Thanks,
F.S.

191. What is the press release announcing?

- (A) The hiring of a new product developer
- (B) The invention of a new type of computer hardware
- (C) The development of a special kind of plastic
- (D) A new application for the Technosnake

194. Why does Felicia Sanchez write to Technocrom?

- (A) To inquire about a delayed delivery
- (B) To ask about Technocrom's stock price
- (C) To warn technocrom about a traffic problem
