Dear Alex,

How are you doing? Last Saturday, my family and I visited a farm in Yilan. There were some cute animals on the farm—dogs, horses, chickens, and rabbits. In the morning, we watched a dog talent show. The dog danced and played frisbee with the owner of the farm. It was really smart. After lunch, we rowed a boat on a lake near the farm. It was a lot of fun. In the evening, the owner of the farm cooked us a big dinner. After that, I performed a song and played the guitar. Everybody was very happy that day.

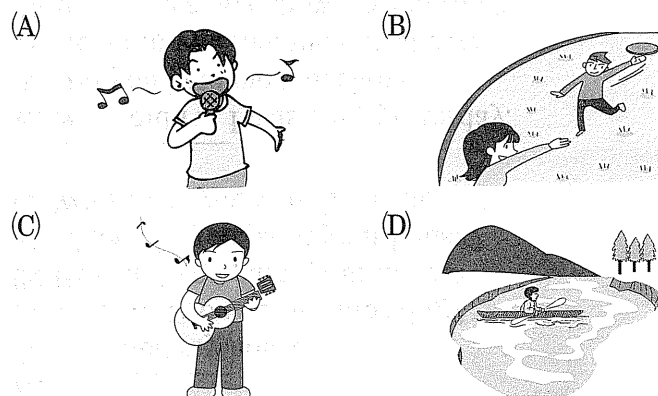

Now, my dad is planning another trip to Yilan. I can't wait.

Twenty years ago, there was a poor boy. He sold brushes door to door after school every day. One day, he was hungry and couldn't even walk. He asked a young girl for some water in front of a house. The girl went into the house and got him a big glass of milk. "How much do I owe you for the milk?" the boy asked. "You don't owe me anything," said the girl. The boy thanked the girl and drank it up.

After many years, the girl became a pretty woman, but she got very sick. Dr. Su, a great doctor, came to help. Because of Dr. Su, the woman got well. But, the bill worried her. A week later, she got a letter from Dr. Su. "Here comes the bill," thought the woman. She opened it up and it read, "Thank you for the milk twenty years ago."
